CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

PROGRAM INFORMATION

The Yellow Barn Studio is proud to announce its open call for applications to participate in a unique program. Artistically motivated high school students may apply for this tuition-free 8-week program of intensive art learning. Students accepted into the program can expect to be led on a journey of personal artistic development that will significantly improve their skills, and enable them to create a body of artwork for college application portfolios.

All students from Washington, DC area high schools or private schools are invited to apply.

Students will meet for class instruction Monday evenings 6pm-9pm from Jan 23 through Mar 19 at the Yellow Barn Studio. Yellow Barn instructor Jackie Jouvenal will work with students on projects designed to improve the student's artistic ability. Significant out-of-class work is expected on projects.

The program is presented tuition-free by Carol Berman, Friend of the Yellow Barn. Additional material costs are the responsibility of the student.

This class may only be taken once.
